SWINDLER CHATRE TRAPPED.

His Victims Include Rich Brokers and Society People.

One Young Woman Sent Him "Her Mite" and Kind Words.

The city's most exclusive society, as well as Wall street bulls and bears, the police believe, have been victimized by Philip Chatre, who will be given a hearing in Jefferson Market Police Court to-morrow morning.

Chatre is charged with passing forged notes and with swindling. He is a stylish cigarette smoker, thirty-five years of age, who pronounces neither and either carefully enough and dresses well enough to obtain the entrance almost anywhere.

He has been wanted by the police for nearly a month, and was caught on Saturday by Detective Sergeant Bonnell and Cottrill. A note received by Barker A. T. De Gennaro, of 14 Broad street, led to his capture. He wrote:

I have just arrived in town and am short of money. I will have $10 until I get a check cashed. I will see you at the club or Stock Exchange. Send money by express. Yours, J. M. Gennaro.

The messenger boy, John Ryan, said the man offered him 50 cents to say that he was to return to Broadway and Twenty-third street, but that he was told to take the money to Exchange Place, near Bowling Green. A decoy envelope was given the boy and Chatre was easily caught.

He refuses to give his residence or any information about himself. A letter was found in his pocket from Helen DeCordova, daughter of Alfred DeCordova, the broker at 34 New street, in which she tells him that he has been swindling her for too much money, and "I want you to stop." She adds, "and hope it will be good to you."

She also expresses sympathy with him and the hope that his wife is a good woman. The letter is sent from Somerville, N. J., and is addressed to Chatre at Centre Moriches, L. I. Another letter found in Chatre's pocket was addressed to Archibald Russell, 55 Liberty street, N. Y. It asked for $10 and was ready for mailing. There were also letters which the police will not make public on account of the prominence of the parties whose names are used. There were also three pictures of Miss Sanford, the actress of 48 West Twenty-seventh street. She admits to know Chatre, but will not say who he is.

Chatre complained to an EVENING WORLD reporter that the police refused to permit his name and a certain woman to be mentioned in the paper. "I heard the girl go into hysterics," he said, "and then the sergeant put her out."

The police say that a man claiming to be Chatre's brother called at the station yesterday and was sent away because he became abusive. They knew nothing, they said, about the girl.

Chatre sent a telegram to E. C. Redell, Twenty-third street, New York, this morning, asking for aid. He also asked that Mr. Granger, a son-in-law of Police Commissioner McAlvay, be notified of his misfortune.

SAD FACES MADE TO BEAM.

Assistance to a Lame Girl Who Wanted a Choice Flower.

I saw two children, the boy, I suppose, about twelve, a fine, golden-haired Scotch lad, with bare feet, carefully mended clothes, a worn bonnet and bright, open, dim face, aglow with health. Clinging to him was the most fragile fairy, with long, brown ringlets of a fashion of forty years ago, great blue eyes and, alas!—for her exquisite face seemed destined to blossom into superior beauty—a bent and twisted limb and a crutch which held her up with one arm, while the strong boy steered her with the other.

They had not yet gained the object which they sought, and I wandered after them, not from mere curiosity, but drawn by the magnetic attachment that seemed to radiate from one to the other. "Now, Jessie," said the boy, "it will be all right; you just hold on." "But, Jack, the pennies will not buy it, I doubt." "Oh, never you mind, we'll see." Then they came to the front of the object of their search. It was a dwarf rose, full of bloom, and the boy, with all the certainty of youth, stepped forward to the old woman.

SCOPE OF A BIG MOVE.

What the Western Campaign Fund May Accomplish for Democrats.

The West to Be Educated in the Matter of Tariff Reform.

Nearly $25,000 in the Fund Now, but Much More Is Needed.

[From This Morning's World.] To carry on a political campaign costs money. Republican managers are now giving a great deal of their time to that interesting process known as the trying of rat from highly protected manufacturers. They are raising thousands and thousands of dollars. They are not obtaining it from men who are willing to give for patriotic reasons, but from men who see that if they can keep the Republican party in power there will be maintained upon our statute books that high tariff law which makes it possible for a manufacturer to reap the benefits of burdens laid upon the masses of the people.

The Republicans are going to have a great deal of money. No matter how much they use of it illegitimately, they will have a very large sum with which to spread throughout the country pamphlets presenting their side of the tariff question. They will also have many thousands of dollars with which to pay the expenses of hiring public halls and engaging speakers to travel from place to place.

Never in any national campaign has the Democratic party had as much money to pay for the circulation of literature or the holding of political meetings as the Republican party has had for these purposes. Now, you, as a Democrat, know very well that if the principles of tariff reform and the general creed of Democracy could be brought home to the thinking people of the United States to the great majority of the people would become Democrats as earnest and as enthusiastic as you yourselves. The truth of this statement will be particularly well understood and appreciated by those who only this last few years have left the Republican party and are now fighting under the standard of Cleveland and Stevenson.

In the pending campaign the Democratic party needs money more than it ever has before. The Republicans know that the spirit of tariff reform has been spreading, and they realize that they must make a stronger fight to retain supremacy than they have made in any contest hitherto. Depend upon it, they will have the dollars with which to wage their battle.

Heretofore a comparatively small number of Democrats have supplied the fund with which the Democratic National Committee has carried on its work. This year an opportunity has been afforded to the masses of the Democratic party to help equip their leaders with the sinews of war. It is the first time that such an opportunity has been afforded, and while many honest Democrats for a while might feel warranted in considering the movement inexpedient, the time has now come for them to put aside such thoughts and join heartily in the plan. The idea of a popular political subscription such as proposed by THE WORLD and carried on by it, and more than one hundred other newspapers, has been officially sanctioned by Chairman Harrity and other members of the National Committee, by Democratic Governors in Western States and by many Democrats conspicuous for their service to the party. Besides all this there have within the last three weeks been received at THE WORLD office 4,400 subscriptions from Democrats of more than twenty States.

These subscriptions came in answer to appeals made by THE WORLD for money with which to carry on a vigorous Western campaign. The importance of an unprecedented, aggressive fight in the West is apparent to every thinking man. Belief in tariff reform has grown more rapidly in the West than in any other part of the country. Belief, too, in the general principles of the Democratic party has increased in the West, and if the proper effort be made those States which once were solidly in the Republican column may be swung from it and brought into line for Cleveland and Democracy.

That political strategy demands a Democratic attack upon Iowa, Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota has been demonstrated by the tendency which those States have shown to abandon the Republican party. Their electoral votes will count largely in favor of Cleveland. Every Democrat should do something to win them.

The Democrats of the doubtful Western States will labor incessantly from now until election day to persuade their hesitating brothers, but all the money that the Western Democrats can raise will not be sufficient to carry on the necessary educational work. The situation, therefore, is one of which Democrats in New York must take cognizance. Without lessening in the slightest the effort to win the Empire State the citizens of every county from Montauk Point to the shores of Lake Erie must decide to make an extra effort and give an additional dollar if the West is to be won, if Cleveland is to be elected.

Three weeks ago THE WORLD started the Western Democratic Campaign Fund movement. Up to date there has been collected $24,072.11. Much of this money came in contributions of one dollar and even less. That nearly $25,000 has been received by this time proves that the people have taken an interest in the plan and given their endorsement. When the announcement was made that money was needed for the West and that subscriptions would be accepted by THE WORLD, there was absolutely nothing going on in politics, and besides thousands and thousands were out of town. And yet money began coming in at once. An interesting feature of the movement was the large number of persons who besides sending money wrote letters expressing their views on the plan and upon the political situation. Many of these letters have been printed.

THE WORLD asks your subscription to the Western Democratic Campaign Fund. The contributions to the Campaign Fund of the Democratic National Committee for the expenses of the general campaign throughout the country will doubtless be made in the usual way, and will not, of course, interfere with those to be made to the Western Democratic Campaign Fund, to which latter all who can should contribute.

I am sure that your effort, supplemented as you expect it to be by that of very many other Democratic newspapers, will be productive of good results. I look for the movement to be one of the most effective aids the Democratic party will have in the present campaign. It will still further emphasize the declaration made by THE WORLD that "the next President must be a Democrat."

Yours respectfully, WILLIAM F. HARRITY, AUG. 15.

For the first time in a national campaign the National Democratic Committee has established headquarters in the West. Members of the National Committee and representatives of Western States meet there from day to day to map out lines of action, but they cannot carry out their plans unless they have money with which to do it. They are depending upon you to help them in this fight.

A dollar given now will be worth more than $2 given later. A dollar invested in this cause may be the means of securing that reform of the tariff which will make prices lower a year from now. A dollar, therefore, given to this cause will return to you later on.

There are Democrats who are Democrats only when they vote. There are other Democrats who are Democrats every day in the year. Be one of this more enthusiastic class and give to this fund that there may be made in the West another new member of your party.

INVOLVED WITH TWO UNIONS.

Pressmen's and Stereotypers' Unions Trouble with the "Tribune."

The Stereotypers' Union is announced today, has not yet settled its differences with the manager of the New York Tribune, as the Union objects to the foreman appointed. Newspaper Printers' Union No. 1 also says one of its committees has been snubbed by John F. Mitchell, when they submitted to him their grievances against the Franklin Association of Pressmen.

The Secretary of the Central Labor Federation was instructed yesterday that the Tribune will be boycotted unless the demands of the newspaper printers be complied with.

FOR THE WESTERN DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGN FUND.

Name..... Address..... Date.....

Make checks and money-orders payable to the Western Democratic Campaign Fund. Address all communications to the Western Campaign Fund, box 3,364 New York City.

"The World" asks your subscription to the Western Democratic Campaign Fund. Scores of Democratic newspapers in other parts of the country have also opened their columns to receive contributions. All the money raised will be expended legitimately by the advice of a committee of leading Western Democrats in waging a vigorous educational campaign in the West.

The plan has been formally approved by Chairman Harrity, of the National Committee, as follows: Democratic National Committee, No. 130 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

To the Editor of THE WORLD: The movement for an energetic and aggressive campaign of education and organization in Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota and other Western States is excellent. It deserves encouragement from the Democrats of the East; in fact, substantial support should be given to it by the Democrats of the entire country.

I believe there are tens of thousands of Democrats who have not been in the habit of contributing to the National Campaign Fund for want of opportunity. The Democratic National Committee has been and is likely to be unable to reach them, and they will doubtless be glad to avail themselves of this means of giving to the fund which is proposed to raise for the expenses of the campaign in the West.

The contributions to the Campaign Fund of the Democratic National Committee for the expenses of the general campaign throughout the country will doubtless be made in the usual way, and will not, of course, interfere with those to be made to the Western Democratic Campaign Fund, to which latter all who can should contribute.

I am sure that your effort, supplemented as you expect it to be by that of very many other Democratic newspapers, will be productive of good results. I look for the movement to be one of the most effective aids the Democratic party will have in the present campaign. It will still further emphasize the declaration made by THE WORLD that "the next President must be a Democrat."

Yours respectfully, WILLIAM F. HARRITY, AUG. 15.

PUT HIS TRUST IN FLIES.

A Wayback Farmer's Way of Arousing His Summer Boarders.

A drummer for a wholesale house was trying to sell a hardware dealer in a country village some electric call bells. He explained at considerable length how really essential they were in every well-regulated modern home. Every room in the house could, at slight expense, be connected by wire, and it would prove a great convenience.

"Here, Uncle Hiram," said the dealer, addressing the owner of a farm house near the town, "here's what you need to call those lazy summer boarders of yours when they won't get up in the morning," and he explained the workings of the electrical call, says the Chicago Mail.

"Blink, I got a better way'n that. 'F a boarder won't wake up in time for breakfast we just make a hole through the musketeer bar of his window and let the flies in, an' after that he's allers round as soon as it's daylight. No, I don't need none of your electricity. I'd rather put my trust in flies."
